

Peter Godfrey

I was born and raised in London and moved to South Africa for 11 years before moving to the US in 1986. I was a consulting actuary in Seattle and Chicago before retiring in 2014 and taking up competitive bridge again after a 40-year hiatus. I have more recently been a volunteer math tutor at Coronado school in Catalina and have served as the Treasurer of Mountainview Bridge Club for several years and as a board member of Northwest Tucson Bridge Club.

I have two children and three granddaughters (as of the last count).

I look forward to serving on the Unit Board".

Beckey Cooper Baker

My interest and eventual love of the game started when I was 8-9 years old. My family visited my grandparents almost every weekend and at my Dad's parents there was almost always a table of bridge going from mid-afternoon until bedtime. Around this age my mother would need to put my younger sisters to bed and my grandparents would let me take her place and explain and help with the bids. My Dad always took control of the playing of the hand in most cases. Over the next 50 years most of my playing was with family. My Dad played duplicate with a fellow teacher and when his partner would cancel I was invited to play with him.

At 62 I retired to Tucson with a goal to play as much bridge as possible. Initially it was all rubber bridge, but on a cruise in 2015 I went to the daily bridge game. A lovely lady from Belgium offered to be my partner. I learned later that she had been a junior bridge champion many years earlier. I earned my first fraction of a point and I was hooked.

Eric Singer offered to play with me at both Adobe and Streams and that was the beginning. I now play almost every day and sometimes twice a day online. I have recruited a good friend and my sister to join ACBL and now my sister, who lives in San Diego has recruited someone to play with in person there.